JPMORGAN WARNS A GLOBAL FOOD CRISIS COULD HIT NEXT YEAR — AND UNLIKE OIL, THERE'S NO BACKUP PLAN FOR FERTILIZER

A new report from JPMorgan, Food Security is National Security: A Compounding Storm, warns that global food costs could climb 5% in the first half of 2027. The U.S. isn't among the countries most likely to be directly hit by the food-security threats JPMorgan forecasts. But that doesn't mean Americans will be sheltered from them.

There are two prongs to JPMorgan's predicted food deficits: a fertilizer shortage and a monumental weather event. The Strait of Hormuz's closure wasn't just bad for gasoline prices. The strait also sees about a third of the world's nitrogen fertilizer — an essential form of fertilizer for around half of the world's crops.

THE WHITE HOUSE POSTS CLIP ON SOCIAL MEDIA “FLIPPING CHANNELS” CAUSING A STIR ACROSS THE NET

What does it mean? Some people familiar with “Q” claim the “flipping channels” message relates to a post related to the arrest and capture of members of the Deep State, like John Podesta.

John Podesta, who is mentioned in the Q post, has a storied past within the Clinton, Obama and Biden Administrations. It's not surprising to see his name mentioned when a clean-up of the Deep State is in order.

TRUMP ADMINISTRATION ASKS SUPREME COURT TO CLEAR THE WAY FOR IT TO IMPLEMENT NEW MAIL-IN VOTING RULE

The Trump administration returned to the Supreme Court on Thursday afternoon, asking the justices to temporarily pause an order by a federal judge in Boston that blocks the government from implementing parts of a U.S. Postal Service rule on mail-in ballots. U.S. Solicitor General D. John Sauer told the court that the order by U.S. District Judge Indira Talwani “partially nullifies the Postal Service’s efforts to address the risk that the federal mails will be used to perpetrate voter fraud—a particularly pernicious species of fraud that dilutes the votes of lawful voters, prevents election results from reflecting the will of the American people, and undermines ‘public confidence in the integrity of the electoral process.’”

FLOCK QUIETLY ROLLS OUT SURVEILLANCE DRONES TO TRACK AMERICANS FROM THE SKY

Flock Safety has quietly launched new surveillance drones that can track and monitor the general public’s every move from the skies. The new flying cameras are part of the company’s expansion of its controversial surveillance empire from America’s roads into the skies. The company, already facing mounting backlash over its license plate-reading camera network, has launched a new “Drone as First Responder” program. The program uses high-powered drones that can monitor people and vehicles from hundreds of feet in the air.

GOP SENATOR HAWLEY OPENS INVESTIGATION INTO FLOCK CAMERAS' SURVEILLANCE PROGRAM

Missouri Republican Sen. Josh Hawley sent a letter Wednesday to Flock Safety CEO Garrett Langley, questioning the company's "collection, retention, and dissemination of the data" from its AI-powered surveillance cameras. The probe comes as the company faces bipartisan blowback for its network of 120,000 cameras, which help law enforcement track the movement of vehicles.

Hawley claimed Congress never "authorized the network your industry has built," and that Americans are seeking information on "who has access to their personal data and how."

FDA APPROVES UPDATED COVID VACCINES—HERE'S WHAT TO KNOW

The FDA recently approved updated 2026-2027 COVID-19 vaccines from Moderna, Pfizer-BioNTech, and Novavax-Sanofi. These new formulations target the circulating XFG variant, crucial as immunity wanes and the virus mutates.

Eligibility is narrowed, primarily recommending vaccination for individuals aged 65 and older, and younger Americans with underlying health conditions increasing severe COVID-19 risk, like diabetes or chronic heart disease.

APOCALYPSE PREP OR PURE PRAGMATISM: WHAT IS BEHIND PETER THIEL'S MOVE TO ARGENTINA?

Dozens of protesters converged on Peter Thiel's mansion in Buenos Aires this week after a congressional session raised questions about the billionaire's presence in the country.

There is broad unease at the tech magnate's presence in the country. His move has been characterized as part of a plan to hedge against world war three: Argentina, agriculturally rich and deep in the southern hemisphere, might just be the ideal place for a tech billionaire to wait out the apocalypse.

But recent developments in the country suggest Thiel could have more pragmatic considerations. Relocation coincides with proposed laws that opponents say would entrench power of US tech billionaires in country.
